Rostock's Christmas market has a long tradition. The history of the Christmas market began in the late middle-ages, when several stalls were put up in the city centre at the time before Christmas. These stalls allowed the people to stock up on anything necessary for the cold season and for the forthcoming feast. Farmers and gardeners offered poultry, fat stock or winter vegetables. Craftsmen like basket weavers, toy makers and sugar bakers joined them. The children should have a nice Christmas and therefore, sweets like burnt almonds, roasted nuts and chestnuts were sold.
